DEDICATION

The task is easy, the pleasure complete, when one is dedicating a book to someone who is admired and respected by the authors. The attainment of a splendid production is indeed a test of ability, for the gift must be worthy of the person who inspired it.

The four years that we have spent under his willing guidance have been inspirational years. Not only through his wonderful philosophy but also through his skillful teaching, have we been imbued with the desire to ultimately attain our greatest possible goal.

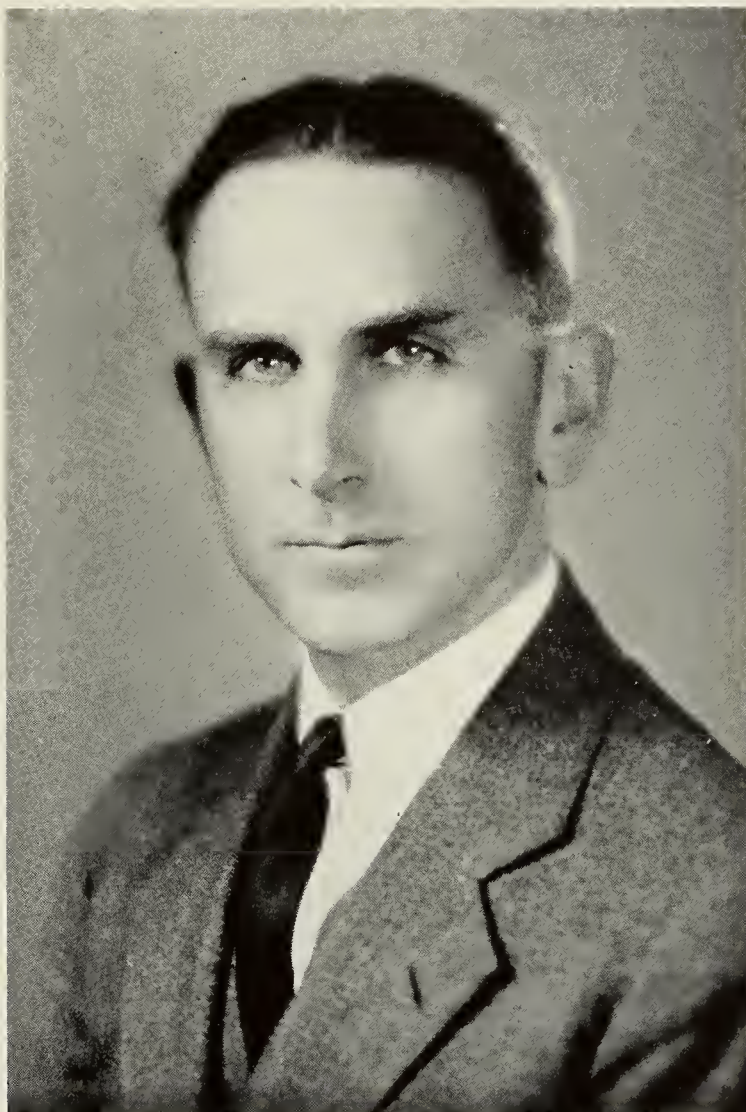

He has given us an appreciation of the aesthetic and the beautiful. He has instilled in us a profound pride in our profession. He has developed the art capacities of the individual students in a manner characteristic of all his efforts.

We have had our share of problems through our college days but have been fortunate in their solution. The knowledge that our faculty leader was at hand ready to aid us in our difficulties was a source of encouragement to each and every class member.

Because he has been our friend and champion, we dedicate our 1940 KNOLL to DeMerritte Allen Hiscoe.

DEMERRITTE ALLEN HISCOE

PRESIDENT JAMES DUGAN

Held in high esteem by the students and faculty alike is our beloved president, James Dugan.

For every student under his guidance, he feels the same responsibility and he offers his kindest advice and help. He is a fatherly counsellor to all of us seeking solution to our difficulties, which at times seem insurmountable. His willing co-operation has made our work less difficult and has supplied us with the incentive always to do the best that is in us.

Moreover his wise counsel is strengthened by our knowledge of his tolerance, high standards and forward vision.

The happy relationship between faculty and students is due in part, to the trust placed in us by him and the freedom we enjoy because of the existence of this trust.

The welfare of Lowell Teachers College—students, faculty, and all it stands for—are his foremost concern.

Knowing all this, is it any wonder that we admire, respect, and love, our president—James Dugan.

FOREWORD

Because four short years ago we came to college together, we saw how to perform the wonderful work of our profession, and we conquered our difficulties; our final gesture is a presentation of the happy experiences and noble deeds of our college life, which have made us one in our efforts. Encompassed in the pages of this book are all our collegiate adventures, which four gay years have provided. Our book is our class, our sister classes, our president and faculty—our college. We are indeed proud of our past and confident of our future, which has been enlightened, strengthened and broadened by our four full years. We, the Class of 1940, have tried to produce in our KNOLL a four-year record of a great college, a pictorial review of fine students and a word description of an unexcelled college spirit which will live for decades to come.

About thy halls a song like fragrance hovers,
The melody of days and hours we've known
Fond memory thy walls like ivy covers
Which clings with tendrils green where it has grown.

The years are short, the time is swift in flying;
Too soon must come the day when classmates part,
Thy memory dear, thy spirit still undying,
Enshrined will glow in every loving heart.

OFF TO COLLEGE

WALK—from north, south, east and west... from a long distance or just around the corner... heavy clumsy books... hooked rugs, drums, turkish towels and gym suits... cold hands, nose and feet...

TRAIN—7:35—Boston... all aboard for Lowell... but we can't go without Sally... a split-second arrival through the baggage car—puffing, panting... "Tickets please"... search through maze of pocketbook to get ticket... 7:45—West Medford... singing, laughing, talking... a little gossip, a little fact... a feeble attempt to study at the back of the car... 7:55—Winchester... More additions to the happy group... 8:00—Woburn... Keith Academy boards the train... more noise, less studying... 8:30—All out at Lowell... gathering up books, lunches, live animals, most anything for our science course... crowded aisles... seems as if everyone gets off at Lowell... hurrying to board awaiting bus... as we get off the bus someone is without a lunch, and we know that her favorite sandwiches are on their way to Concord.

CAR—If we see a car full of jolly girls and the window sill covered with books, papers, and oranges we know it is on its way to Lowell Teachers College. A few of the sayings heard on this trip are: "Who's taking up all the room?"... "someone's sitting on my lunch"... "my skirt and coat are accordion pleated"... "the first I knew about it".

BUS—Jerks as we try to find our way to the last two seats...only to find ourselves in seats which have already been taken...road under construction...feel as though we're riding horseback...an unfortunate sequel to a hurried breakfast...forgot my pass..."do you think he'll take two punches tomorrow?"

BIKE—pump, pump, pump...up and down hills...blistered hands...it's not only a good way to get to college but is also good for that "school-girl complexion" and figure.

DASH—History first hour..."wonder if I have the Secretary's report?"...Guess we'll have time to put our coats in the locker...get down to locker room and find we have left key in other pocketbook...after climbing the stairs we stumble into class panting for breath and find that the clocks are a few minutes fast, and we are five minutes too early.

'TWEEN TIMES

LUNCH—Race down to lunchroom in order to get favorite table...remember I left my lunch in desk...go upstairs and find desks have been moved...can't remember the number of my desk...search through about twenty-five desks and then find it in one of the five desks in the library...After eating a few bites the clock reminds me that there is a committee meeting in session...As I enter my fifth-hour class munching on an apple, I hear a rumor to the effect that someone is contemplating a shorter lunch hour...

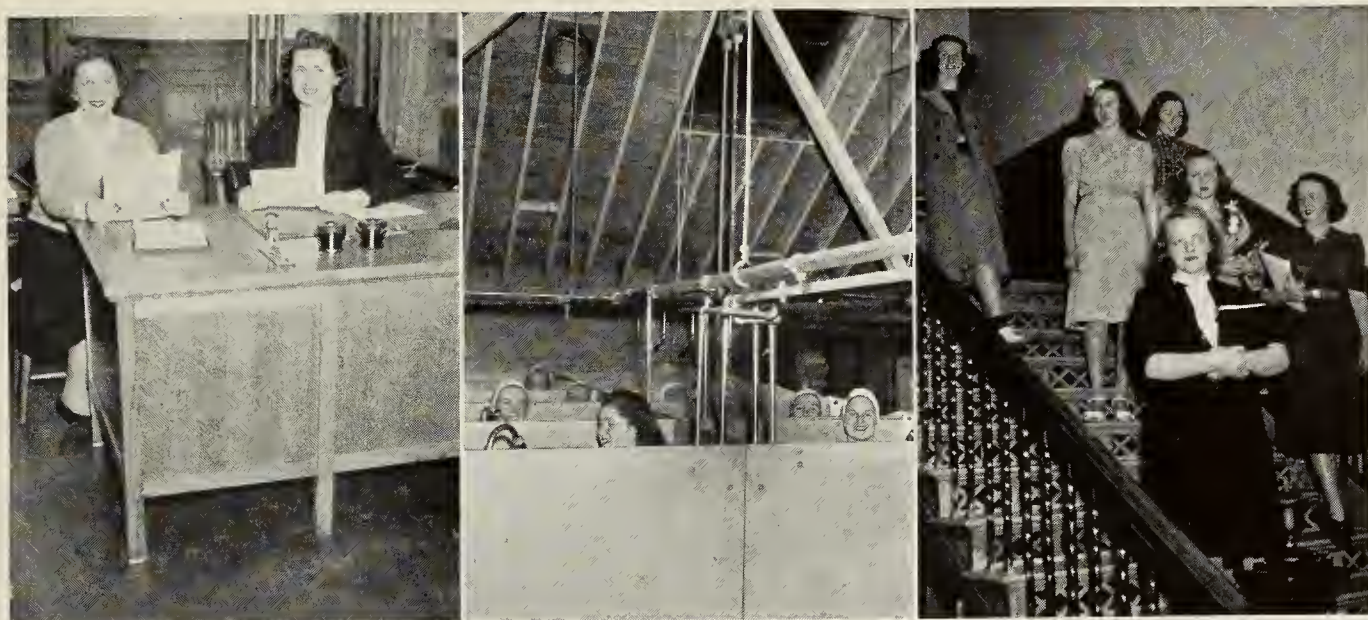

KNITTING—Knit one, purl two...split stitches...this doesn't look much like a sweater...wonder if I'll ever be able to wear it...hope it will be done by spring...

FIXING UP—In the locker room at any time of the day one is likely to find a group of girls washing hands, combing hair, or in other words "fixing up."

OFFICE—"May I have a bus ticket?"...
 "Will you please sign this slip?"... "May I use the telephone?"... "Would you sell me a stamp?"... We wonder how the office staff do their work with all our interruptions...

SHOWER—Ouch! that water's hot!... no shower cap... straight hair... Brr! why doesn't someone invent an adjuster for warm water...

STAIRS—up and down many times a day
 ...good reducing contraption... we suggest that some wealthy class leave elevators to the college, as a class gift.

LIBRARY—Enter library to study...
 Everything is so quiet. See someone you just have to speak to... Rush over and whisper an exciting story... Bell rings...
 Time certainly flies when one is trying to study.

MAINTENANCE STAFF—Moving desks, chairs and pianos... setting up spotlights, moving-picture machines and screens... keeping up the fires... taking care of our campus... for all these we are deeply grateful.

In all walks of life;—school, college, business—the individual is influenced by those with whom he associates; by the contacts he makes; by his environment, social and financial, and by his own activities. Influence is healthy or harmful.

We are proud of the good influence we have had bestowed on us by an ever faithful guardian—our president,— by a watchful faculty ever mindful of our welfare, and by students possessed with the “joy of life.” We have been influenced by the friendly and familiar classrooms and corridors of our college against whose walls our happy laughter has echoed during our last four years. All have contributed to our college life a wholesome atmosphere.

Our clubs;—art, dance, dramatic, glee, literature, mental hygiene, scout and sketching;—provide interesting extracurricular activities for every student. It is not compulsory to join a club. All those students belonging to the club of their choice, however, find an outlet for the expression of their individual talents and avocations.

The sports program is a full one and each year new items are added to its list of unending seasonal games. They include archery, badminton, baseball, basketball, bowling, golf, hockey, riflery, swimming, tennequoit, and volleyball.

We have our class ensembles and our college choir comprised of members of the music and elementary departments. They have presented the work done in our music department through their many public appearances.

James Dugan

PRESIDENT

The Class of 1940 has won for itself an enviable place in the life of Lowell Teachers College and it is with sincere pleasure that I extend congratulations on your splendid record.

As a class and as individuals you have been alert to the needs of the college, and you have responded in no small measure in helping to meet those needs.

You have worked faithfully and well to help to preserve the fine traditions of Lowell Teachers College and I am grateful to you for the excellent co-operation you have given me on all occasions.

You have demonstrated during your stay with us those qualities which give us reason to have great faith in your future, and I know that your college will not be disappointed in what she expects of you.

CLASS OF 1940:

It has been a joy to watch your growth in dependability, efficiency, and helpfulness during the last four years. Hold fast to your ideals in meeting your future problems. Always remember that "to be a success you must have a strong arm, a clear head and a brave heart."

Your unfailing co-operation in the past warrants our confidence in your future faithfulness. Your whole-hearted loyalty is a precious asset of Lowell Teachers College.

We believe that here you have learned something of the art of living together in freedom and with tolerance. May this experience guide you toward an intelligent and useful citizenship consecrated to the service of humanity.

TODD LECTURE

Dr. Heinrich Bruening, ex-Chancellor of Germany, was the speaker at our annual Todd Lecture May eighth. His topic was "Problems of Democracy."

To us students the conclusion of his talk was of keen interest because it showed us how to preserve Democracy.

Dr. Bruening pointed out that Democracy is today more on the defensive than it has been for a long time. However, one should not accept a pessimistic view of its future.

Democracy can survive, but only if the moral values, upon which its democratic traditions were founded, are vitally alive. These values can be achieved through education and training, but disaster will be inevitable if each nation plans selfishly for itself alone.

A return to simple common sense is needed. We Americans must have the courage to face the truth, even to brave unpopularity. Our youth must be trained to realize the supreme value of Democracy and be prepared to live for, and, if necessary, to fight for its ideals. They must develop such moral qualities as courage, personal responsibility, self-control, moderation and other character qualities, which are essential to Democracy.

SCHOOL and SOCIETY LEAGUE

Since 1916 the Lowell State Teachers College has been developing a responsible and serviceable citizenship among its students through the School and Society League, a plan of student participation in the government of the college.

The League's activities afford many opportunities for the students to get real practice as citizens of a true democracy, thus cultivating the qualities of leadership and fellowship essential in our American life.

The purpose of the School and Society League is to foster student activities, to maintain good government in the college, to cultivate high ideals of conduct, and to prepare the future teacher for effective service in the community.

ATHLETIC BOARD

Advisor, Miss Marguerite L. Gourville

President, Helen F. Trainor

Vice-President, Camille T. Marquis

Secretary, Pauline R. Shugrue

Treasurer, Mary L. Green

Board Program:

The major events of the Athletic Association consist of a games program, attendance at conferences held at Fitchburg and Boston, play days with other colleges, the Athletic Banquet, the winning of awards, and the traditional Army and Navy games.

Every girl in the college is either a member of the Army or the Navy. She makes her choice as a Freshman, and remains loyal to this group throughout her four years. At the end of each season honor teams are chosen; one for the Army and the other for the Navy.

Tea

Concert

Dance

Social

This year, the publicity committee of our college planned the program for Father's Night. Different departments of the college entertained in their own respective fields.

This affair gave the fathers an opportunity to become better acquainted with the college, President James Dugan, the faculty and students.

The college invited the mothers of each class to attend a tea given at the college. These teas were enjoyed by the mothers and assisted in bringing about friendly relations between them and the faculty.

College dances! Formals as well as informals attract many, as was demonstrated by the Strauss Revival.

Informal teas, socials and interclass parties were held in the recreation room. Each class gave a party to its sister class. These socials were keenly anticipated by all.

Salute

Choral Speaking

The flag was saluted by the Assembly every Monday morning, and the familiar strains of the "Star Spangled Banner" rang throughout the building.

On Father's Night an interesting choral-speaking group entertained with such well-known verses as Benét's "Jesse James" and Keats' "Naughty Boy."

Investiture was a very important day for the seniors. To don our cap and gown, surely made us feel quite dignified and sophisticated. After we had been invested we wore our caps and gowns on Wednesdays and to lectures and concerts.

Class day was one of the outstanding affairs of our college year. The seniors and their guests witnessed the planting of the ivy—a traditional feature of class-day activities.

As dusk was falling, and gayly colored lanterns decorated the lawn, step-singing was enjoyed by all, as each class tried to outshine the other with its original songs.

President, Phyllis Pidgeon
Vice-President, Marie Dolan
Treasurer, Barbara Eldredge*

Club Program:

The club activities commenced with a get-acquainted social for the new members. Another enjoyable party was held at Christmas time in the form of a catered luncheon.

The progress of the club was somewhat impeded this year due to the fact that over half of the membership was comprised of Juniors, who were obliged to be at training school at five-week intervals. In spite of this handicap two one-act plays were presented in May.

DRAMATIC CLUB

SCOUT CLUB

Advisor, Miss Mabel Turner
President, Virginia Roarke
Vice-President, Ruth Caddell
Secretary-Treasurer, Gloria Bickford

Club Program:

We enjoyed a program in which we could help others. Folding bandages for the Visiting Nurses Association and sewing for the Red Cross formed part of our program. This club sponsored the First-Aid Course given by the Red Cross. Thirty members were enrolled.

Nature challenged us and we had many outdoor activities, some of which were: nature walks, weenie roasts, hikes and a week-end trip in the spring.

GLEE CLUB

Advisor, Miss Grace Pierce
President, Anna Jablonski
Vice-President, Marjorie Johnson
Secretary, Loretta O'Brien
Treasurer, Camille Marquis
Librarian, Helen Coyne
Assistant Librarian, Ruth Conrad

Club Program:

The first performance of the group was at the Christmas concert when an evening of holiday songs was presented by the entire club and by each of the club ensembles.

The outstanding event of the club was the operetta "The Mikado" which was given in the Lowell Memorial Auditorium. The principals were students in the Music Department.

Advisor, DeMerritte A. Hiscoe

Club Program:

A group of girls interested in the fine arts joined the Sketching Club.

During the first few meetings the club devoted its time to charcoal sketching. Living models were used in various poses.

As the year advanced many beautiful sketches were produced. Pastels, tempera paint and oils were used.

The club visited the Whistler House in the spring, where the fine art of painting was greatly appreciated.

SKETCHING CLUB

MENTAL HYGIENE CLUB

Advisor, Herman H. Brase
President, Maryclare Hayes
Vice-President, Marion Ambrose
Secretary, Laurette Waters
Treasurer, Eugenia Pretti
Clinic Chairman, Barbara Teeven
Social Chairman, Priscilla Boone

Club Program:

This club aims to develop a better understanding of the field of mental hygiene.

The program planned by the club consisted of club meetings where the earlier experiences of the members were analyzed, and discussions of dreams and hypnotism were held. Visits to mental hospitals for practical observation were made. Parties were held for various occasions and events.

Advisor, Miss Marguerite L. Gourville
Officer, Doris Jones

DANCE CLUB

Club Program:

This year's program of the Dance Club has been one of activity. Several programs have been created and presented. Each girl in the club has had a chance to express herself through movement and in this manner gained poise. Techniques, individual studies and finished compositions have been the content of our program.

Our big project of the year was to invite the Dance Groups from Fitchburg, Framingham, Bridgewater and Salem Teachers Colleges to come to Lowell for a dance Symposium.

We've worked hard but we've had fun and developed a vital interest in the Modern American Dance.

ART CLUB

Advisor, Miss Josephine W. Chute
President, Harriett McKenzie
Vice-President, Pauline McLaughlin
Secretary, Ruth Barry
Treasurer, Margery Harris

Club Program:

The Art Club is comprised of some sixty members.

At club sessions, each member does some type of handwork. There are groups of girls who knit sweaters, mittens and socks; those who crochet doilies, handkerchief edges and curtain pulls; others who make braided and hooked rugs; and still others who sew on dresses and blouses.

We have had several holiday socials during the course of the college year, at Thanksgiving, Christmas and Valentine's Day. All have been exceptionally delightful.

Advisor, Miss Sarah E. Lovell
President, Mary Elaine Kiernan
Vice-President, Veronica Fitzgerald
Secretary-Treasurer, Barbara Barris

Club Program:

The members of the Literature Club meet once each week on Tuesday with Miss Lovell. The club program is kept varied and flexible by diversified activities. We read and discuss current literature, both prose and poetry, and enjoy reviews of new books and old, given by the members. At our informal gatherings we have settled many an important matter not entirely of a literary nature, such as our government's foreign policy and Katherine Ahern's brownies.

The college year has brought to the members of the Year Book Staff a new experience in co-operation. Working together in the harmony and enthusiasm engendered by a common purpose, we have found a deeper feeling of comradeship. We have been given confidence and encouragement by the unfailing loyalty and support of our classmates.

We are grateful for the willing co-operation of Mr. Dugan, members of the faculty, and the entire student body, without which the 1940 KNOLL could not have been.

PRACTICE

Each student in the college spends a number of months at training school during her four years. The first part is spent at the training schools in Lowell. There are two training schools in this city where the students train under experienced teachers. The last ten weeks of teaching are spent in the city or town where the student lives, and where she expects to find a teaching position.

The students preparing for music supervisors are trained in the college, and teach music in the elementary school, junior high school, high school and college.

The various music activities such as the orchestra and glee club offer valuable experience to music students in conducting. The choir offers experience in group singing.

It has been necessary to practice self-control, responsibility, co-operation and other traits in order to have a successful student government.

Good sportsmanship has been developed in athletics as well as in all the other activities. We have been trained in the techniques of basketball, hockey and many others so that we will be capable of teaching these.

TRAINING SCHOOL

The class-room is a beehive of activity, as the children carry out units of work in which all subject matter is integrated.

When we think of the excellent work our student-teachers do, not only while in college, but after they are graduated, we know that a great deal of the credit belongs to our director of student-teacher training, Miss Ramsay.

During our experience in the laboratory school we had an opportunity for the study of children, their individual differences, and the integration of the various phases of educational theory and practice.

In the training school the student-teacher works and plays with the children. Here teacher-pupil activities, subject matter, and method are determined by the interests, needs and abilities of the class so that they may be able to adjust themselves physically, mentally and emotionally to the society to which they belong.

CLASS LEADERSHIP

Important in our teacher-training course is leadership. In order to produce good leaders, we commenced in our Freshman year to receive training in taking charge of classes with our own classmates, and later on we entered the training schools to further develop poise and the power to hold the attention of a group of children in a classroom.

Throughout life few have the opportunity to be leaders in their own group. Many must be co-operative followers.

We have had a chance to further develop good leadership as officers of a class, club, or organization and also in our many sports. This leadership training which we have received in our college classrooms will not only aid us in our teaching but will be of assistance throughout our lives.

Harriet Coombs, a representative from the music department is shown leading community singing at assembly. Student leadership prevails throughout the Chapel exercises.

CHOIR and ORCHESTRA

The College Choir, composed of Junior and Senior Music Students hold rehearsals twice weekly. During the school year we gave a Christmas concert in the college auditorium and also entertained with a program at Haverhill.

The choir is under the capable direction of Miss Mabel Wilson, a member of the faculty.

Besides singing at assemblies and concerts, the girls sang at our mothers' teas.

The Orchestra is comprised of students from the elementary and music sections. They meet once a week for rehearsals and play for various performances at the college. These include such events as the Christmas Concert, Father's Night, Senior Investiture and the operetta "The Mikado." The orchestra is conducted by the Senior Music Students.

P R O D U C T

Four short but worth-while years have passed. As seniors, we feel that we have grown in many ways since we entered Lowell Teachers College.

The academic work which has been accomplished has met the needs and desires of every student.

The advice and counsel which the faculty has always been willing to give has been greatly appreciated.

The School and Society League has developed within us a more responsible feeling toward the government of our college, toward our duties as American citizens and toward our duties as future teachers of the community.

Through the Athletic Association, leadership has been established. Games have been played for the fun of it. In other words, more emphasis has been placed on playing than on winning.

The Music Department of our college has been so arranged that we have learned to love as well as to teach one of the most beautiful of all the arts.

As future teachers we should understand that no two pupils have the same problems, and each one should receive the guidance he needs. By doing this, each individual should be qualified to do some useful work well in the world.

To-day's children will be the leaders of the future. It is our duty as teachers to educate them to live better and to pass on to future generations better conditions than now exist.

The Blue and the Gold

(Class Song)

Oh classmates of our college days
Though time our ways must sever,
Let us sing beloved Lowell's praise
And hold her dear forever.
What tokens from her shall we bear
On that high road which calls us?
What colors on our hearts to wear
Whatever lot befalls us?

Refrain:

The honest blue for truth and light,
For loyalty and love;
The shining gold for honor bright
And faith in God above.

Seek not to hold a day that flies
And linger not in sorrow;
With eager hearts and shining eyes
We face the new tomorrow.
As fledglings leave the mother nest
And find their strength through trying,
Each Lowell girl will do her best
With Lowell's colors flying:

Refrain:

The honest blue for truth and light,
For loyalty and love;
The shining gold for honor bright
And faith in God above.

*Words by Mary Elaine Kiernan
Music by Anna Jablonski*

Thoughts of Dracut

Lonely pines are peeping
'Bove golden Autumn leaves
Whose summer dresses are sleeping
'Neath many trees and eaves.

Old Beaver Brook is roaming
By winding hill and dale,
But beauteous is this scenic view
Throughout the Dracut Vale.

'Tis fertile, yes the farmer's joy,
The children's land of play,
Where beavers built and rambled here
In prehistoric day.

Mary Laganas

Evening Song

When you hear a robin singing
In a budding maple tree,
Pouring forth the sweetest notes he knows,
Contented, blithe and free
When he sings his beautiful evening song
Bidding the world good-night
As day sinks away in the western sky
And out of the east comes night,—
Do you think of the wonders of God's world,
The marvels His hands have wrought,
Do you see new hope of finding the things
For which you have always sought,
Do you feel, perhaps, in the robin's song,
A lull in your earthly strife,—
Do you know, with a surge of happiness,
That he's singing the song of life?—

Memories That Haunt and Linger

Four years have elapsed since with fear and awe
These stately college walls we saw,
When eagerly we scanned each nook,
On each puzzled face an expectant look.

Oh, what memories sweet and treasures dear
Were garnered in our Freshman year.
Initiation, balls and teas,
Borrowed books—semester fees.

Then with what pride and thrills galore
We claimed the title Sophomore.
State Teachers then seemed more like home,
After the merry days we'd known.

Our Junior term which years before
Had seemed to us a distant shore,
Now welcomed us—with fervent soul
We struggled for our nearing goal.

Sad, happy days of our Senior Year,
These we shall love and hold most dear.
We'll bid farewell to class days with regret,
State Teachers College—we'll never forget.

Mary Laganas

The Seashore

To the seashore in the springtime
Go the girls from L.T.C.
For a week of glorious playtime
A good time for you and me.

From the time we choose our cottage
'Til the day we end our stay
We're a happy group of playmates
Looking forward to each day.

Our beds are not as roomy
As the ones we've left behind,
But they serve the purpose fully
When you're having a grand time.

Around the dining table
Gathered morning, noon, and night,
We eat what's set before us
And enjoy it every bite.

In our sports and get-togethers
Do our classes all combine
To make that year the best of all
With memories for all time.

Now, a tribute to the seashore
May it always bring new delights
To those who follow after
And raise them to new heights.

Mary Shinner

Moonlight

At night when the moon bathes the garden
in silver,
Besparkling the dew-damp lawn,
The fairies come out of their homes in the flowers
To frolic and dance until dawn.

The queen takes her throne on the lip of the larkspur
From whence she so fondly looks down
On her gay, tiny folk as their tinkling laughter
Dispels every worry and frown.

So they sing and they play till the coming of day,
When the twinkling stars quietly fade—
And afar in the sky, as if timid and shy,
The soft dawn creeps out of the jade.

When the bright moonbeams glance on the dewdrops that dance
'Neath the wee fairy folks' tiny feet,
And that heavy scent falls from the flower-banked walls
So deliciously fragrant and sweet,

When the soft, sleepy breeze just sighs in the trees
And brings that sweet perfume to me—
Can you make me believe on this Midsummer
Eve
That elfins and fairies can't be?—

Margaret Jensen

Day Dream

Here on the grassy hill I lie,
Below me earth; above me, sky.
And bent by all the winds that pass,
Between my fingers grows the grass.
Warm is the earth, and warm the sun,
And I and the sweet warm earth are one.
I shall not move in a million years,
Nor ever rise, for prayers and tears,
But settle closer, for I must,
Into the friendly, kindred dust.
Upon my hair the wind will play,
And on my face will break each day,
And my still dust the rain will wet
And mark with each small rivulet.

Part of the fertile, spreading lands,
I'll cradle seedlings in my hands,
And roots of flowers, wild and sweet
Will tangle at my quiet feet.
People will pass, and never know
That I am lying here below.
And if I call, no head will turn,
For they have yet my tongue to learn.
I see a face I used to know—
I'll call once now, so clear and low
In the old way, and if she give
The answer back, I'll know I live.
I should not hope...so many years
Have passed me...Oh! She hears! She hears!

SENIOR CLASS

With mingled joys and sorrows the Senior Class looks upon the day of parting from our beloved college; for we are joyful in the pleasant memories that our college has given us, yet sorrowful in the thought that so soon we must leave our Alma Mater.

For four years we have worked and played together under the faithful guidance of President Dugan, our faculty, and officers. Their sympathetic understanding of our problems and willing assistance will always be remembered by the class of 1940.

As our last year closes we have many happy memories which will linger forever.

Class Advisor, Miss Sarah E. Lovell
President, Marie Dolan
Vice-President, Regina Pimentel
Secretary, Marjorie Johnson
Treasurer, Teresa Kennedy

The Junior activities started with the initiation of the Freshmen and the sixty-eight members of the class supported the affair whole-heartedly. Initiation lasted for a week at the end of which time a party was given in honor of the "little sisters."

The Mother's Tea in December was very successful.

In January a supper was held at "Pete's" and the class and its advisor spent a very enjoyable evening.

During the Spring vacation many Juniors attended the House party at Hampton.

May 13-17 was Junior Week, during which time the Junior Prom was held.

SOPHOMORE CLASS

On November eighth a hayride was held in Lowell. After the hayride, refreshments were served and dancing was enjoyed. The hayride was a novel idea and proved to be entertaining.

Two weeks later, an activity which always deserves attention, took place. The class dance, "Sophisticated Swing at the Sophodero," attracted many and was a complete success. A night-club background was carried out with a Kay Kyser skit.

The year would not be complete without a social for our sister class. A Valentine's Day party was held and games, refreshments, distribution of valentines, dancing were features of the afternoon.

Class Advisor, Mr. William E. Riley
President, Gloria Bickford
Vice-President, Margaret Flanagan
Secretary, Arlene Carll
Treasurer, Shirley Green

The class was initiated during the first week of the college year by the Junior "Big Sister" class. Their exercises lasted for a week and were concluded with a party given by the "Big Sisters" to the Freshmen.

The most important event of the Freshman class was the dance held March 29, at the college. The affair had a musical background. Decorations consisted of records, notes of the scale, and balloons. President Dugan, Mr. and Mrs. Riley, and the class officers received the guests.

The House Party at Hampton was a new experience for all of our group and was so enjoyable it will be anticipated yearly.
